

THE WAY OUT: Cowichan Vision for Wellness

2024

THE COWICHAN REGION

Our community is facing a crisis.

Previous success in the Cowichan region has been largely due to the way in which we work together, our regional approach to resolve complex social issues.

Cowichan region local governments and Indigenous leaders are aligned across civic jurisdictions and mandates and united in their approach to clear and coherent goals.

Members of the Cowichan Coalition to End Homelessness have collaborated on a 3-phase comprehensive response to this complex crisis in our community.

Built on Partnerships and Working Together

Our Current Situation

- A December 2023 count by direct providers identified 423 People who are unhoused or residing in shelters, the Village or Sq'uamal in the central core.
- 17 youth aged 13-18 were included in that count
- Approximately 40-70 people living in vehicles across the region

It is directly known that over 300 people require permanent housing

3000 people are one pay cheque away from homelessness

Our Current Situation - Options

When Properly Resourced...

We Know What Works

The Village- Changing lives – Changing Community

- The village is a culturally safe and effective treatment model
- 20% of participants access residential treatment (compared to 1% of unhoused)
- Step 1 to treatment and recovery – “Now I am supported, Now I am ready”
- 100% of participants are connects to health services including addictions medicine, wound care, public health and mental health
- Costs to service providers significantly reduced, including 75% reduction in emergency department visits
- The Village is fast and affordable to implement – could be assembled in 90 days
- Pods are available from local supplier
